RECREATIONAL PILOT CERTIFICATE COURSE

The Recreational Pilot Certificate Course is designed to teach you basic flight maneuvers, airplane systems, aerodynamics, basic navigation, Federal Aviation Regulations, and develop the skills and attitude necessary to be a proficient, safe, recreational pilot. Recreational Pilot's can fly single-engine airplanes with no more than four seats, with fixed landing gears only, and can carry one passenger if the aircraft allows it. Additional training is required for flying within certain classes of airspace and long distances. The Recreational Pilot Certificate is earned by passing a check ride given by an FAA-designated examiner. The Recreational Pilot Certificate Course will fully prepare you for this check ride as well as for many years of enjoyable flying.

Requirements: You must qualify for a Third Class Medical and a Student Pilot Certificate to qualify for this course. The FAA requires a minimum of 30 flight hours to qualify for the Recreational Pilot Certificate. The average course completion time is around 35 hours. Additional instruction may be necessary depending upon the abilities of each individual student. We recommend that students fly at least twice per week. Pricing is for Part 61 training. Part 141 training for this certificate is currently not available from MRFTI, LLC.

Package Details: Our packages, which are divided into stages, combine to include training materials and flight hours that you will need to complete the course. Purchasing a package locks-in aircraft rental and instruction rates for six (6) months from purchase date, although you will still be subject to an additional charge if you receive the Renter's Insurance discount price and elect to discontinue your coverage. If you complete the program in less time than offered in a package, the remaining funds are available for your personal use.
